Don't forget that our eastern neighbors are feeding apples to stock with good results, whilst we have only a scanty supply for family use. Also the eastern farmers have their barrels of cider and an abundance of the best apple vinegar, and here either is a rarity with the majority of families. And yet we most all cultivate more land than is profitable and have often an abundance of waste and worn out lands that could be made profitable if set in trees, besides improving the condition of the land.

WALLACE'S
BRANCHING FLOUR CORN

We offer for sale a variety of Corn, obtained four years ago from an Indian chief, at Grand Island, Neb. By carefully selecting and planting, we have obtained a variety of corn for which we claim the following points of excellence:

1st. It is Branching Corn yielding more per acre than the common field variety.
2d. It matures six weeks earlier than common corn.
3d. When ground into fine flour it produces a flour analogous to flour made from wheat; even an epicure would fail to distinguish between bread made from the two.

TERMS:

For 50 cts. we will send enough to plant 50 hills.
For $1 we will send enough for 150 hills.
For $2.50, 600 hills. Address,
REID WALLACE,
Auburn, Lincoln county, Missouri.

CERTIFICATES:

This is to certify that I have tried Reid Wallace's Corn Flour, and find it even better than he represents it to be. The bread is sweeter and lighter than wheat.
JAMES NICHOLS.

This is to certify that Mr. Wallace gave me some of his Branching Flour Corn to grind. Never having ground anything like it, I endeavored to grind it about as wheat. I found it made a good quality of flour and a good turn out, making over forty pounds of the flour to the bushel. I took some of the flour home and tried it. I never was more surprised. The bread was like wheat in every respect. I cannot, nor do I believe any one can, tell the difference if there is any. I have been a miller for twenty-two years.

Insurance, in order to be reliable, must be guaranteed by successful and well known corporations; the policies of doubtful or experimental companies being dear at any price. The best policies are always the cheapest, and the cheapest are always the dearest.

Insurers should select their company as they would a banker, or person who is to hold their funds in trust.

The Aetna Insurance Company presents a record not surpassed by any other insurance company, and offers the most reliable security at rates as low as they can be made consistent with fair profit and success.
